There are, no doubt, other limiting perspectives in this work, and it is your responsibility to point them out, and my responsibility to listen and work with you to correct or at least account for them.

...to question something is not to seek weakness, it is to seek fitness.

...a major reason for the Atlas is to get the library community to ask hard questions so that we are fully ready for hard scrutiny from our members and beyond.

Major Issues

- Role of Collections
- Neutrality and Bias
- Lack of Historical Connections
- Constructivism and Knowledge
