

Why Libraries? Stewards of Culture

R. David Lankes

Professor and Dean's Scholar for the New Librarianship
Syracuse University's iSchool

Steward of Cultural Heritage

The screenshot shows the PhilaPlace website interface. At the top, the browser address bar displays "http://www.philaplace.org/". The website header features the "PHILA PLACE" logo, a navigation menu with items like "HOME", "MAP", "TOPICS", "COLLECTION", "BLOG", "EDUCATORS", "ABOUT", "SUPPORT", and "MYPHILAPLACE", and a search bar. A teal banner with the text "Sharing stories from the City of Neighborhoods" is visible. The main content area is dominated by a historical map of Philadelphia. A pop-up window titled "Jefferson Square Park and Sacks Playground" is open, showing a photograph of the area and a text box that reads: "These adjacent parks are indicative of the ongoing transition of the neighborhood around Washington Avenue, where the ethnic mix of Irish, Italian, and African Americans ...". Below the map, there are three columns of featured content: "Welcome to PhilaPlace!", "Featured: The Sugar House", and "Most Viewed: Richard Allen Homes".

PhilaPlace - Sharing Stories from the City of Neighborhoods

http://www.philaplace.org/

PHILA PLACE

Sharing stories from the City of Neighborhoods

HOME MAP TOPICS COLLECTION BLOG EDUCATORS ABOUT SUPPORT MYPHILAPLACE

ADD A STORY

Jefferson Square Park and Sacks Playground

These adjacent parks are indicative of the ongoing transition of the neighborhood around Washington Avenue, where the ethnic mix of Irish, Italian, and African Americans ...

Jefferson Square

Historical maps supplied by OpenStreetMap and Historical Maps of Philadelphia

Welcome to PhilaPlace!

Explore the City of Neighborhoods through maps, stories, photographs, and documents, and share the story of your PhilaPlace.

Read more about PhilaPlace.

Learn more about the neighborhoods.

Featured

The Sugar House

Known to many in the neighborhood as the Sugar House, this long-standing sugar refinery closed its doors in 1984. The ...

Most Viewed

Richard Allen Homes

Built in 1941 and named after Richard Allen, founder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Richard Allen Homes was one ...

